BULLSHIT BORIS REVEALS HE'S STILL A LYING TWAT

By Ronan Porter

Anyone remember the outright lie that the NHS would get an extra £350 million a week if Britain leaves the EU? World class bullshitter and the UK's Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson apparently does.

Bullshit Boris recently wrote a 4,000 word "outline" in the Telegraph for the UK leaving the EU, which includes not only the above incorrect statement, but also his plans for a "hard" Brexit. Apparently the EU never made Britain feel special enough, so a "hard" Brexit would, in exchange for controlling the borders even more, be removed from the single market. Not only being utter dicks to Europe but also tanking the economy once again and leaving us utterly fucked – again.

Not only is Bullshit Boris lying out his ass about the £350 million a week but by writing out his plans publicly in the first place he's really shown how fucked up the

ART BY RONAN PORTER

Tory party is, coming out less than a week before the actual Prime Minister Theresa May is going to give a major speech on Brexit. He's been accused of "backseat driving" and it has been suggested this was his bid for leadership – now then we'd really be fucked. Who the hell wants this idiot as Foreign Secretary let alone running the country?!

The actual net contribution of Britain to the EU is £156 million a week (in the last year), less than half what Bullshit Boris claims, and a lot of that money once we "have it back" will be needed to replace all the EU funding we'll lose in the first place!

It seems Bullshit Boris cares more about looking good for his diehard Leave followers than using facts and trying to help fucking run the country.

As well as perpetuating the lie the Leave campaign plastered over their campaign bus, he also insults the younger generation who want to remain a part of the EU. He wrote, "I look at so many young people with the 12 stars lipsticked on their faces and I am troubled with the thought that people are beginning to have genuinely split allegiances." Because caring about wanting to be a part of a greater community is apparently a bad thing, what the fuck is with this allegiance bullshit?! This isn't the fucking army, Boris, get a grip.

ST. LOUIS PROTESTS TURN VIOLENT AFTER ASSHOLE GETS ACQUITTED

By Zoe Langford

After some dumb fuck, Jason Stockley, got acquitted of murder in the high court, there were protests to show how angry people were that he got away with it. Stockley shot Anthony Lamar Smith five times after a high speed car chase, Stockley was suspected of planting a weapon in the car to justify the shooting. To make matters worse, the fuckwad was also caught on a recording saying "going to kill this motherfucker, don't you know it" to his partner moments before the shooting.

When he was acquitted on Friday 15th September, people started peacefully protesting before a select few fuckwits decided to turn things violent. It was then that the police arrived and started to arrest anyone they could. A total of 80 people were arrested throughout the protests which contributed to the more idiotic members of the group becoming violent.

Soon after, the fucking police had surrounded the protestors but also many members of the media who were not part of the violence and began arresting them too. Apparently you can get arrested in the United States for being in the wrong fucking place at the wrong fucking time – who knew.

ROHINGYA EXODUS

By Kaushikee Gupta

Myanmar is now in news for all the wrong reasons - slit throats, burnt villages, dead children and raped women in thousands of numbers, but all of these are being claimed FAKE by the Burmese Officials by saying that Rohingya Muslims set their own houses on fire ablaze to hijack the world's attention. Over 200 villages are burned to the ground. Tens. Of Thousands. Of Homes. All to attract International Attention? Sorry, but the evidence says otherwise.

400000 Rohingya Muslims have fled the area. The refugees say the army is planting mines along the border with Bangladesh and soldiers are shooting at them as they try to flee. The UN is calling it "the text book example of ethnic cleansing". Buddhist nationalists from Myanmar say that there is no place for people from Bangladesh who are "illegally occupying" their country. Doesn't that seem like a convenient justification of the current purge to make it look like a historic right? With the goal of wiping an ethnic minority off the map?
